New Amendment Repeals the Ives Law Without a Substitute.

A Possible Injunction May Bring About a Nice Legal Battle.

It is the intention of the managers of the Maspeth and Aqueduct tracks to Day reopen Jan. 1, 1895. On that day the new State constitution goes into effect, and the race-track men see a chance to get in a few days' racing before the Legislature passes laws prohibiting betting on

Mr. L. Frank, the moving spirit in the Maspeth Association, yesterday telegraphed friends at St. Asaph and Alexander Island that he was acting under the advice of counsel, and had been ad-

Frank claims that as the new constitution goes into effect on Jan. 1, 1835, the Ives Pool law is practically nullified, and that no interference on the part of the authorities can be made until the Legislature passes new laws bearing on the subject.

Legislature passes new laws bearing on the subject.

The claim of the Maspeth people that the Ives law will be null and void after Jan. I cannot be accepted as a fact. The point involved is a nice one, and if racing is attempted, it is probable that the authorities will interfere.

Then the matter will have to be taken to the courts for a decision. Frank's hope is that the Legislature will not take immediate action on the racing clause of the Constitution. In that case, an attempt will be made to race until stopped by legal proceedings, when a test case will probably be made. Lawyers differ upon the question of the legality of this action. The new clause in the constitution simply provides that the Legislature shall pass laws to prevent any of the offenses mentioned. In a preceding clause it says that bookmaking shall not be authorized, but does not state that it shall be prohibited. So, the argument is, on one side, that as the Ives Pool law "authorizes" pool-selling on tracks, it is nullified immediately. At the same time, no new law will be substituted until it is drawn and passed by the Legislature.

This would cause the legality of pool-selling to be entirely unprovided for by statute, or, as some hold, to revert back to come under the laws of 1887.

In the meantime, any one interested could apply for a temporary lijunction against the tracks, if they permit pool-selling and the matter would go at once before the courts for decision. There is likely to be a re ul nice legal fight of unlimited rounds if the Maspeth or Aqueduct track is opened as is intended. Aqueduct track is opened as is in-

NO ROBY RACING.

Gov. Matthews Won't Have It and Says "It Shall Not Be." (By Associated Press.)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 15.-Gov Matthews said last night he had notified the backers of the Roby Winter Racing Association that the proposed Winter meeting at that track could not come off, and that he would stop it if in his nower
